Counselling in English

Cancer affects the patients and their relatives physically, mentally and socially and changes their lives. Specific burdens and concerns may leave individuals speechless and lead to anxieties. Changes may put differing demands on each person involved.

Due to our professional competences and our personal experience as cancer patient or relative of one, we are able to offer a special quality of counsel.

We offer psychosocial and psychooncological counselling, crisis intervention and therapeutical sessions for individuals, couples and families either face-to-face or by phone or email.

Content of our work in English is as follows:

- support in coping with the disease
- information and exchange of experiences regarding clinics, rehabilitation and treatment methods
- help in facing dying and death
- grief work

We would appreciate your donation.

If interested, please contact us to make an appointment.

English speaking counsellor:

Regina Fronhoffs

psychologist (M.A.), psychooncologist
